SquareTradeUP

SquareTradeUP needed a more secure platform and deeper expertise to support its quick growth. A 9Acts Well-Architected Review found where its AWS architecture and operations could better meet the business, and 9Acts implemented controls across all six pillars.

Before

Quick growth that called for a more secure platform and deeper expertise.

After

A Well-Architected Review with controls implemented across all six pillars.

About the Company

CW Technology and SquareTradeUP are a global leader in aftercare and trade-in for consumer electronics and home appliances, working with clients in Australia on a shared vision and a transparent, quality partnership.

The Challenge

SquareTradeUP wanted to find out how their existing AWS environment stacked up against industry standards, and identify any areas of vulnerability. They also needed help with automation and management of their environment. In addition, they wanted to implement the best security practices overall, and have a continual process of compliance for the infrastructure so that there is little risk of significant compromise.

Solution

9Acts evaluated their cloud infrastructure posture using industry-standard frameworks, enabling remediation of identified gaps and implementing governance throughout the organization. This is a great example of how 9Acts is leveraging AWS best practices, along with automation and security tools like AWS Security Hub, in order to make their customers' experience even better.

9Acts has made a number of changes to their infrastructure and security practices in order to better comply with AWS best practices and to make the customer experience for its cloud services even better. To do this, 9Acts automated different security checks and alerts along with leveraging AWS Security Hub.

Outcome

After reviewing SquareTradeUP's needs, it was clear that 9Acts had the right solution. Our innovative service helped SquareTradeUP address its evolving needs in terms of performance, cost optimization, and scalability.

Furthermore, our experienced support team is available to help maintain SquareTradeUP's infrastructure in order to ensure its high availability and fault-tolerant performance. And because we're aligned with industry best practices, we can make sure that any gaps in security get fixed as well.
